Warming to solar

GEEBUNG company Earthsave was given a of approval by their customers at the 2008 Northside Chronicle Business Achiever Awards on August 8.

Owners Fergus and Andrea Tweedy accepted the House and Home Trades Award.

Mr Tweedy said the award was welcome recognition from their customers.

Mr Tweedy said the company specialised in solar technology and had benefited significantly from increased consumer demand due to government rebates.

Mr Tweedy said he expected Earthsave to suffer due to the means test applied to the Federal Government's photovoltaic rebate under the May Federal Budget, although he hoped the increased recognition coming from the Business Achiever gong would help keep business strong.

"There are still many people who qualify for the solar rebates and we hope they will make the switch to solar," Mr Tweedy said.

"It is important to invest in renewable energies."

Mr and Mrs Tweedy said their Business Achiever award plaque would now hold pride of place in their Virginia outlet.
